About the Organizer	Jiangsu Institute of Parasitic Diseases (JIPD), founded in July 1950, is located in Meiyuan, Wuxi – a natural scenic zone on Tai Lake, which is regarded as one of the most beautiful cities in China. It is a specialized research institute for the prevention and control of parasitic diseases. It is the first batch of master's degree awards approved by the State Council. It has a team of parasitic experts consisting of a number of masters and doctors who have studied abroad and rich in malaria and schistosomiasis prevention and research experience. In addition, the teachers include infectious disease experts and technicians from the National CDC and the Jiangsu Provincial CDC. Since 2002, the Ministry of Commerce has commissioned a total of 52 training programs on malaria and schistosomiasis, and trained more than 1,500 technical and management personnel for the 70 developing countries in Africa, the Americas and Southeast Asia. JIPD composed of Department of Schistosomiasis Control, Department of Malaria Control, Department of Filariasis & Intestinal Helminthiasis, Research Department, Editorial Office, Training Centre, Health Examination Centre and Clinic Service, Key Laboratory on Technology for Parasitic Disease Prevention and Control, Ministry of Health. It equipped with conference building, boarding rooms and entertainment rooms is in a beautiful campus of the institute. Falling into the subtropical monsoon climate belt, Wuxi is characterized by four distinct seasons. Average temperature in December is around 5°C-15°C.
Seminar/ Training Course Content	This seminar consists of two parts: special lectures and on-site inspection. The lectures mainly include: 1. Summary of infectious diseases; 2. AIDS epidemic situation and response, case analysis in China and Jiangsu Province; 3. Tuberculosis epidemic situation and response, case analysis in China and Jiangsu Province; 4. Prevention and control of insect-borne diseases and elimination of experience such as malaria, schistosomiasis, zika, dengue fever, etc. 5. China's planned immunization process, current work introduction; 6. Infectious disease epidemic report and management, etc. The on-site inspection mainly includes organizing participants to go to disease control institutions, hospitals, universities and other professional institutions to gain in-depth understanding of China's infectious disease prevention and control and research experience; and also to go to relevant drug research and development enterprises to learn about the R&D and production of various anti-infectious drugs in China. In addition to these official activities, we will also organize participants to visiting and sightseeing in surrounding areas of Wuxi as the city of Suzhou and Shanghai, to find Chinese cultures and customs for help enriching their life and understand Chinese rich culture and its long history. Through the training, the participants will have a more comprehensive understanding of China and China's infectious diseases situation, especially preventive control strategies and technical methods. It provides reference for their own national disease prevention and control. These are all good foundations for further exchanges and cooperation between China and developing countries in infectious diseases prevention and control.
